Follow up and After Care Plans:

The treatment you received during your hospital stay focused on quickly resolving your recent mental health crisis.

Continuing with treatment soon after a hospitalization is a very important part of your care that will help you progress toward remaining well.

It is a good idea to have a plan that helps guide you in identifying early stressors or problems and the steps to be taken to remain well. All of these elements are part of a successful aftercare plan.

The first step in staying well begins with an appointment right after a mental health inpatient stay. Ideally, outpatient care should begin with an outpatient appointment within 7 days after your discharge.

Your Primary Care Physician:

It's important that your Primary Care Physician receives information about your hospital stay especially if you or your child has a medical condition that requires monitoring and/or medication.

Your written consent is needed to coordinate this information. Please be sure to ask your aftercare provider about coordinating with your Primary Care Provider.

Make an aftercare plan while you are still in the hospital:

- Take an active part in your discharge and aftercare treatment planning.
- Your plan should include your family or other available support systems.
- Schedule an aftercare appointment within seven (7) days after you leave the hospital
- If you have special needs that could keep you from going to your aftercare appointment, please tell the discharge planner so they can help you find the necessary resources including transportation.
- Your aftercare plan belongs to you and is driven by you. Be an active part of your discharge and aftercare treatment planning.
